Ostrovní is a modern housing project, built on a plot surrounded by historic architecture. It is located in the heart of Prague, near the National Theatre, just a few streets from Wenzelsplatz. The shape of the plot required a unique construction solution. Despite the limited space, the architects managed to fit 2 apartments on each floor with light-filled rooms. The same applies to the main staircase. From the hallway, two living units are accessed on each floor. The building accommodates a total of 8 apartments, including a duplex apartment in the two upper floors.
